Other Key Offices at KU:

Your unit's Director of Graduate Studies, Graduate Advisor, or Graduate Coordinator/Administrator is your first stop for any questions related to graduate study or requirements. If you would like to research an issue in advance of speaking with your department or if you still have questions, the following offices can provide assistance:

College Office of Graduate Affairs \(COGA\)

COGA oversees graduate affairs and administers University policy for programs within the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The COGA website contains comprehensive information on requirements and processes pertaining to graduate education at KU. Most common questions can be answered with the information provided there, including questions regarding enrollment changes or forms, University policies regarding exams and committee requirements, and University graduation requirements. The College of Liberal Arts & Sciences' Master's Hooding Ceremony is coordinated by COGA.

COGA reviews all student petitions of University and College policy, issuing decisions on behalf of the College or referring as required to a faculty committee and/or the Office of Graduate Studies. The more common student petitions relate to Enrollment, Graduate Credit, Leave of Absence, and Time Limit Extensions.

COGA is a resource if you have questions about petitions or graduation requirements that your department is unable to answer. Refer to the COGA website for current staff contact information.

Office of Graduate Studies

Graduate Studies is the office of the Dean of Graduate Studies at KU. The Executive Council of Graduate Studies sets policies and regulations governing graduate study, and offers various programs for graduate students throughout the year. While COGA should be your first stop for any questions your department cannot answer, you may be referred to Graduate Studies for certain matters, especially for questions about GTA/GRA/GA appointments and policies. The University's Doctoral Hooding Ceremony is coordinated by Graduate Studies.

Graduate Admissions (Within the Office of Graduate Studies)

Contact Graduate Admissions for questions regarding, KU Online Application for Graduate Study, ADMIT system / Prospect, English proficiency requirements, and official transcripts.

Office of the Registrar \(OUR\)

Contact OUR for questions related to enrollment (if the question cannot be resolved via the enrollment changes link provided above under COGA), tuition, campus fees, the Academic Calendar, and fee petitions.

Financial Aid

Contact Financial Aid for questions related to the disbursement of scholarships, fellowship award, loans, and FAFSA.

International Student Services \(ISS\)

Contact ISS for questions related to international students, including enrollment requirements, international student insurance, obtaining a social security card, I-20 questions, and any issue related to student visas. While other offices on campus such as the AEC, Human Resources, or the Registrar may also handle related matters, because the students' legal status in the country may be affected, it is recommended that students contact ISS first.

Center for Teaching Excellence \(CTE\)

The Center for Teaching Excellence (CTE) is a University office dedicated to assisting instructors, including GTAs, to develop effective instructional techniques. The expert staff of CTE can introduce instructors to the pedagogical technology available at the University and help instructors develop new approaches to teaching. CTE specialists work with instructors individually, and also offer a diverse array of workshops and discussions. They also can guide instructors to useful scholarly literature on the subject of college teaching and learning.

GENERAL POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

Admission

To be considered for admission to the Kress Foundation Department of Art History graduate program, students must meet all University Policies and Degree Requirements for Admission.

In addition to meeting all university policies and degree requirements, the Kress Foundation Department of Art History also has the following pre-requisite for admission:

- Official Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores. You should request that these scores be sent to the University of Kansas by ETS (KU's code is: 6871).

GRE Scores that are five or more years old as of the application due date will not be accepted. If your GRE scores are five or more years old you should retake the GRE in time for the new scores to arrive before the application deadline.

Deadlines

To apply for fall admission into the M.A., M.A./Ph.D., or Ph.D. program, please submit all application materials no later than January 1.

Application Materials & Procedures

Applicants to our program should complete the KU Application for Graduate Study.

Please be aware that the following items will need to be prepared in advance and uploaded with the online application:

- Three letters of recommendation (preferably from professors)
- Resumé or curriculum vitae
- A one-page statement of educational and career objectives
- A writing sample (preferably an art history paper) 8-20 pages of text not including endnotes or images following endnotes
- A list of art history courses taken in chronological order and including: (1) the number of credit hours, (2) instructor's name, (3) grade received.
- One Official Transcript for all post-secondary education. Although there is an option for uploading unofficial transcripts to the online application, an official transcript should also be sent directly from those previous institutions to KU via email: gradadmin@ku.edu or mail: Graduate Admissions, 1450 Jayhawk Blvd., Strong Hall 313, Lawrence, KS 66045

- Official Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores
- International Applicants must also submit official TOEFL/IELTS scores.
Please see the “Non-Native Speakers of English” portion below for additional information*

For additional information on all application requirements, please visit the Admissions portion of our website. Any questions regarding the application process may be directed toward the Graduate Academic Advisor.

Non-Native Speakers of English

The Office of Graduate Studies requires applicants, international or domestic, whose native language is not English to demonstrate English proficiency. Please review the Graduate Studies' Policy on English Proficiency Requirements for Admission for more information regarding University requirements for providing proof of English proficiency.

Provisional Admission

On rare occasions, the department may recommend an applicant who does not meet the University's minimum requirements for provisional admission. This may occur, for example, if a student's overall undergraduate GPA is deficient but the major GPA, GRE scores, and writing sample suggest strong potential for success in graduate study. All recommendations for provisional admission are contingent on approval by the College and University.

To continue in the program, students admitted provisionally must meet any additional requirements placed on them upon admission by the Director of Graduate Study.

Please visit University Policies and Degree Requirements for Admission for additional information on regular and provisional admission.

DEGREE TRACKS

The graduate program of the Kress Foundation Department of Art History awards the M.A. and the Ph.D. degrees.

The M.A. provides students with a broad knowledge of the visual arts, as well as an introduction to the basic concepts and methods of the discipline. The M.A. may be pursued as a terminal degree or as preparation to petition for doctoral studies at KU or to apply elsewhere.

The Combined M.A./Ph.D. is a streamlined degree track intended for students who want to pursue the Ph.D. in art history at KU, but who do not yet hold the M.A. degree in art history. The Combined M.A./Ph.D. student is expected to complete fewer post-M.A. course credit hours than the student who does not pursue this combined track. For details click here.

The Ph.D. is intended for students who hold the M.A. degree in art history.

Requirements for these degrees have been established by the department as well as by Graduate Studies and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. This Graduate Student Handbook consolidates information established by many sources in an effort to help the art history graduate student understand the rules and regulations pertinent to the degrees offered. This handbook is designed for the student who has been accepted into the program and provides information regarding requirements for the M.A., Ph.D., comprehensive exam and dissertation procedures, Graduate School time limits, financial aid, procedures for evaluating graduate student performance, and student grievance procedures.

If a question is not answered here, or if clarification or further explanation is needed, students should see the Director of Graduate Studies (DGS) or the Graduate Advisor for East Asian art, as appropriate, the department chair, or their Ph.D. advisor. (Throughout this handbook “appropriate graduate advisor” typically refers to the DGS, for students in European and American art history, and/or the Graduate Advisor for East Asian art, for students in East Asian art history)

It is each graduate student’s responsibility to know and observe all regulations and procedures relating to the graduate-degree program the student is pursuing. In no case will a regulation be waived or an exception granted because students plead ignorance of, or contend that they were not informed of, the requirements, regulations, procedures, and deadlines. Responsibility for following all policies and meeting all requirements and deadlines of graduate programs and Graduate Studies rests with the student.

M.A. PROGRAM IN ART HISTORY

The following information is relevant for M.A. and Combined M.A./Ph.D. students

Statement of Purpose

The M.A. programs in European and American art and in East Asian art at the University of Kansas seek to provide the student with a broad knowledge of the visual arts in those respective fields. An introduction to the basic concepts and methods of the discipline, of the techniques of research and the acquisition of information constitute the objectives of study. The M.A. degree may be considered either as an end in itself or as preparation for subsequent specialized doctoral studies.

Program Requirements

The program for the M.A. degree for both M.A. and Combined M.A./Ph.D. students in Art History requires a total of 30 hours of graduate work. A maximum of nine of the 30 hours may be taken outside the department with approval of the appropriate graduate advisor. Students are advised individually by the appropriate graduate advisor to determine their program.

At the discretion of the department, up to nine hours of graduate credit taken at a regionally-accredited graduate school may be transferred and applied to the M.A. degree. Only coursework graded B or higher may be transferred. Courses that were counted toward meeting the requirements of another graduate degree completed either at KU or at another institution may not be used toward meeting the 30 hours for the M.A. degree.

M.A. students in European and American art must take at least one art history course numbered 500 or above in three of the following four areas:

1. 400-1400: Europe, the Mediterranean, or Near East
2. 1300-1700: Europe, the Mediterranean, or Near East
3. 1700-1900: Europe or America
4. Post-1900: Europe or America

*If a course falls into two or more areas of study, it will count only for one. The student must designate for which area s/he would like that course to count. In the case of a seminar, the topic of the student's paper will determine which area will be fulfilled by the course.

M.A. students in European and American art history must take at least six art history seminars, two of which must be numbered 800 or above.

M.A. students in East Asian art should take a balanced distribution of graduate level (500 level or above) courses in Chinese, Japanese, and Korean art history.

M.A. students in East Asian art history must take at least five art history seminars, two of which must be numbered 800 or above.

Foreign Language Requirement

Since graduate students in art history may be required to use materials published in foreign languages they are expected to have a reading knowledge of one appropriate foreign language (see below for specific details for students in European and American art and East Asian art). Note that a native speaker of a language other than English may use the native language to fulfill a language requirement only if the language is considered to be an appropriate research tool for that student's program of study. Proficiency must be demonstrated before the M.A. comprehensive exam may be taken. Foreign language courses numbered below 500 will not count towards the 30-credit M.A. requirement; those numbered above 500 may count.

For students in European and American art history:

A modern European language typically constitutes an appropriate foreign language.

Reading knowledge may be demonstrated in one of two ways: by passing a proficiency exam, or by enrolling at the appropriate level in a foreign language and completing the fourth semester course with a grade of B or better. (Undergraduate coursework will not count.) Language proficiency exams will be scheduled by the Art History Department during the week before classes begin each semester. Students are expected to take the proficiency exam or to enroll in the appropriate level of a language course during their first semester in the program. For the proficiency exam, which lasts 1.5 hours, the student will be expected to translate, with the aid of a paper dictionary, a passage of art historical writing in the foreign language. The translation will be graded on its overall accuracy.

For students in East Asian art history:

Chinese, Korean, or Japanese typically constitute an appropriate foreign language.

Reading knowledge may be demonstrated in one of three ways: by completing the fourth-semester course of an appropriate language with a grade of B or better (undergraduate coursework does not count), by being a native speaker of one of the relevant languages, or by passing a proficiency exam administered by the Art History Department. Language proficiency exams will be scheduled by the Art History Department during the week before classes begin each semester.

For this exam, which lasts 1.5 hours, the student will be expected to translate, with the aid of a printed dictionary, a passage of art historical writing in the foreign language. The translation will be graded on its overall accuracy.

*Note that it is less common for students to fulfill the East Asian language requirement by taking the proficiency exam offered by the Art History Department. In most cases, students who are not native speakers of one of the relevant languages need to enroll in the appropriate level of language course in their first semester. Please contact the East Asian Languages and Cultures Department to schedule a placement exam to determine the level of language course in which to enroll.

Time Limits to Complete Master's Degree

M.A. students are expected to complete the requirements for the degree in two to two-and-a-half years. Students who pursue the degree part time or have extenuating circumstances have no more than seven years to complete all requirements for the degree. In cases where compelling reasons necessitate a one-year extension of the seven-year limit, Graduate Studies, on recommendation of the appropriate graduate advisor, shall have authority to grant a one-year extension.

Related Policies:

- Master's Degree Time Constraints

M.A. Thesis Option

A student may write a thesis in the final year of M.A. enrollment. In order to do so a member of the graduate faculty must accept responsibility for supervising the thesis that normally will be developed from a previously written seminar paper. The student must enroll for three hours in HA 899: Thesis, while working on the thesis. Thesis hours do not count as 800 or 900 level seminar hours and must be taken in addition to the required 800 or 900-level seminars. No more than three thesis hours may be counted toward the thirty required for the degree.

The thesis, with a recommended maximum length of 50 pages, is intended to reflect a high quality of research and writing. Three faculty members (the supervisor and two others knowledgeable in the area) must read and approve the thesis.

The thesis must be submitted to the advisor by the tenth week in the semester of the expected graduation in order to meet the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences graduation deadline. See the CLAS graduation calendar on the COGA website for specific deadlines.

M.A. Examination

1. Timing of the M.A. Examination

The M.A. examination is offered three times per year: in August and January, during the week prior to the beginning of classes, and on Stop Day in May. Students should take the examination either at the beginning of the semester during which all other requirements (30 credit hours of coursework) will be completed or at the end of their final semester of coursework in May.

Full-time students are expected to complete the exam no later than their fifth semester of enrollment in the M.A. program. If a full-time student does not complete their M.A. exam by their fifth semester, a degree completion contract must be created in consultation with and approved by the Director of Graduate Studies for the student to remain in good standing in the program. Should the student not fulfill the terms of the degree completion contract, he/she will be placed on probation and will be expected to pass the exam when it is next offered (see Probation section for the consequences of not fulfilling the terms of probation).

A student must be enrolled according to the CLAS policy on M.A. enrollment in order for the exam to count toward the completion of their degree.

2. Grading of the M.A. Examination

The M.A. exam is graded independently by three faculty readers without knowledge of the student's identity. Each essay will be graded for its accuracy, clarity, ingenuity, and cogency.

Each faculty member will assign individually a grade of "honors," "pass," or "fail" to each essay. The overall grade of each essay will be determined by the majority of the grades assigned by the three faculty readers. Only the overall result of the exam will be communicated to the student.

The student must pass both essays to pass the exam. Both essays must receive honors for the student to pass the exam with honors. Any student who fails the exam is expected to take the entire exam again the next time that it is offered. Note that during this time, the student must continue to follow enrollment guidelines established by Graduate Studies. A second failure of the exam will result in the student's dismissal from the program.

3. Separate exams will be given in European/American art and East Asian art (see below).

For students in European and American art history

I. Exam Format

The student will write answers to two essay questions. The student will have two hours to respond to each question. There will be a lunch break between the two parts of the exam.

The two questions will be chosen randomly from the six essay questions below. The student will have had access to the six essay questions from the time he or she entered the M.A. program. The student will know the question he/she is to answer only upon beginning each part of the exam.

For each essay, the student will select and employ at least two and no more than three examples of art or visual culture from three of the four areas of study defined by the European/American M.A. distribution requirements (for a total of six to nine examples). The student is expected to incorporate into his or her essays discussion of the relevant art-historical scholarship and/or debates.

The successful essay will respond thoughtfully to the question and present examples that display the student's breadth and depth of art-historical knowledge.

II. Possible Exam Questions

1. Discuss the changing conceptions of the portrait and/or self-portrait
2. Discuss changing representations of the human body.
3. Discuss changing conceptions of the landscape.
4. Discuss changing conceptions of space/spatial organization.
5. Discuss changing representations of everyday life.
6. Discuss the ways in which visual culture engages (directly or indirectly) with ONE of the following: politics, history, or religion.

For students in East Asian art history:

The format of the East Asian M.A. exam changed during the fall 2017 semester.

Students admitted prior to the fall 2017 term may opt into the new post-fall 2017 exam format or may select the pre-fall 2017 exam format.

Post-fall 2017 exam format:

I. Exam Format

The student will write answers to two essay questions. The student will have two hours to respond to each question. There will be a lunch break between the two parts of the exam.

The two questions will be chosen randomly from the six essay questions below. The student will have had access to the six essay questions from the time he or she entered the M.A. program. The student will know the question he/she is to answer only upon beginning each part of the exam.

For each essay, the student will select and employ at least three and no more than five examples of art or visual culture from the following countries: Korea, Japan, and China. Each essay should include examples from at least two of these three countries. At least one example from each of the countries must appear in the exam as a whole (the two essays together over both days). At least two examples in each essay should date before 1900 CE.

The successful essay will respond thoughtfully to the question and present examples that display the student's breadth and depth of knowledge of East Asian art history.

II. Possible Exam Questions

1. Discuss changing conceptions of the portrait and/or self-portrait.
2. Discuss changing representations of landscape.
3. Discuss different examples of site-specific art and architecture.
4. Discuss changing representations of everyday life.
5. Discuss ways in which visual culture engages (directly or indirectly) with politics.
6. Discuss ways in which visual culture engages (directly or indirectly) with religion.

For students who do not choose to opt into the new exam format:

Pre-fall 2017 exam format:

The exam will be administered in two three-hour periods, scheduled over two days. During these sessions students will be asked to write six essays. Students will have an hour to write each essay.

Students will not be given specific questions to answer in the essays. Rather, students will be presented with images of six different sets of juxtaposed objects or monuments. These works may be from any period and may or may not be accompanied by some identifying information. Slides will be projected for the entire hour.

Each of these sets of works is meant to serve as the catalyst for an essay. The student will be expected not only to discuss the works and their relationship to one another, but also to incorporate them into a larger art historical argument of the student's own devising. That argument may address any issue or problem suggested by the juxtaposition, and should draw upon the student's broader knowledge and understanding of art history.

Students must pass at least four of the essays to pass the exam. Passage of all essays and four of these with honors constitutes passage with honors. Any student who fails the exam will be expected to take the entire exam again the next time that it is offered. A second failure of the exam will result in the student's dismissal from the program.

PETITION FOR CONTINUATION IN THE Ph.D. PROGRAM

All M.A. and M.A./Ph.D. students who wish to be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program must complete and sign the Petition for Continuation in the Ph.D. Program form, which will be distributed at the M.A. exam and collected before the start of the exam. Students must already have expressed this interest to a potential major field advisor and received that faculty member's support. The student will indicate on the form the name of that potential major field advisor. The student must pass the M.A. exam in order for his/her petition to be considered. After receiving approval for the petition and upon successful completion of all M.A. requirements, the student will automatically be entered into the Ph.D. program and will be expected to maintain his/her enrollment as per Graduate Studies guidelines.

Students who indicate on the petition that they do not wish to be considered to the Ph.D. program, at the time of the M.A. exam, will need to reapply for admission to the art history graduate program if they choose to return in the future.

Please see appendix 1 of this document for a sample petition.

Summary of Master's Degree Requirements

European and American art history candidates should complete:

1. 30 graduate hours (i.e., 500 or higher level courses), with an overall GPA of 3.0 or better. These hours are to include:
 - a. One 3-hour course in each of the required distribution areas (see page 10).
 - b. 18 hours of 700 or higher seminars, 6 hours of which must be taken at the 800 level or higher.

East Asian art history candidates should complete:

1. 30 graduate hours (i.e., 500 or higher level courses), with an overall GPA of 3.0 or better. These hours are to include:
 - a. A balanced distribution of 500 or higher level courses in Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art.
 - b. 15 hours of 600 or higher level seminars, 6 hours of which must be taken at the 800 level or higher
2. One 3-hour European or American art course. This course may be numbered below 500 (i.e., an undergraduate course), but will count towards the 30 required hours only if it is at the 500 level or above.

All M.A. and Combined M.A./Ph.D. students must pass the M.A. degree comprehensive exam.

Students must complete all M.A. requirements, including the 30 hours of coursework, by the end of the term in which they take the M.A. exams.

Ph.D. PROGRAM IN ART HISTORY

Admission

Students seeking admission to the doctoral program normally hold an M.A. degree in Art History from this or some other accredited institution.

Preparing a Doctoral Program of Study Petition

For students who receive the M.A. degree in art history at KU, normally, within two semesters after the completion of M.A. coursework (not counting the semester in which the student finishes M.A. coursework), the student is expected to present to the graduate faculty, for their approval, a Doctoral Program of Study petition (see appendix 3 for a template).

For students who enter the Ph.D. program with an M.A. in art history from another institution, normally, within three semesters after the completion of M.A. coursework (not counting the semester in which the student finishes M.A. coursework), the student is expected to present to the graduate faculty, for their approval, a Doctoral Program of Study petition.

At least one full week prior to the next regularly scheduled faculty meeting, the student must send via email in PDF format the Doctoral Program of Study petition, which has been approved by her/his major and minor General Comprehensive Examination advisors, to the Graduate Academic Advisor and the DGS (for students in European and American art history) or the East Asian Ph.D. Advisor (for students in East Asian art history). In the rare circumstance that the Graduate Advisor is out of the office, an out-of-office notification will be sent in response to the email submission. In this case, it will be the student's responsibility to follow up with the DGS or East Asian Ph.D. Advisor.

The status of students who fail to meet the above time limits will be evaluated. Those who cannot justify a delay will be put on academic probation; those students who fail to fulfill the requirements of the probation, will be recommended, to the college, for dismissal from the program.

In the Doctoral Program of Study petition, the student identifies the faculty member who will be his or her advisor for the major field (hereafter referred to as the "major Ph.D. advisor" or "major advisor") and two other graduate faculty members, representing two minor fields. Normally, advisors for the major field and at least one minor field hold appointments in art history. In consultation with the major advisor, the student will define a primary area of specialization and prepare a program of study within it. Also in consultation with the major advisor and in support of the major field, the student will define the two minor fields, one of which may appropriately be outside the department. Specific course work within the two minor fields is devised with the respective minor advisors, under the overall supervision of the major advisor.

Normally, minor fields are supported by two courses that have been taken at the graduate level. The Doctoral Program of Study petition also identifies the Foreign Language and Graduate Studies' Research and Responsible Scholarship requirements. See the Foreign Language and Research and Responsible Scholarship Requirements section.

In consultation with the major Ph.D. advisor, the graduate faculty makes the final determination regarding the student's program. If approved, the student's program will be overseen by the major advisor and guided by his or her committee.

Residence and Post-M.A. Coursework and Enrollment

Normally, Ph.D. students are expected to complete 18 to 21 post-M.A. course credit hours. These credit hours must be taken at the graduate level.

Normally, Combined M.A./Ph.D. students are expected to complete 12 to 15 post-M.A. course credit hours. These credit hours must be taken at the graduate level.

The exact number of required post-M.A. courses will be determined in consultation with the student's committee.

Once the Ph.D. student completes the expected post-M.A. coursework, s/he is expected to take the Ph.D. General Comprehensive Exam. Normally, this should occur within one semester (but no more than two semesters) following the completion of regular coursework (not including HA 707 or 907 hours). The student may enroll in HA 999 (dissertation hours) beginning with the semester in which the comprehensive exam is taken and the Dissertation Proposal is prepared (see Dissertation Proposal). Enrollment in HA 999 requires a permission number that can be obtained only from the dissertation advisor. Dissertation advisors will provide permission numbers only after a contract has been agreed upon between the student and the advisor. HA 999 hours completed before the successful passage of the Ph.D. General Comprehensive Exam will not count towards the University's Post-Comprehensive course credit hour requirements (see "Post-Comprehensive enrollment" below). Post-comprehensive enrollment may include enrollment during the semester or summer session in which the comprehensive oral examination has been passed.

The Ph.D. student must spend at least the equivalent of three full academic years (which may include the time spent in attaining the M.A.) in resident graduate study at this or some other approved university. After the M.A., two semesters, which may include one summer session, must be spent in residence (on campus) at the University. During this period of residency, the student must be involved full-time in academic pursuits, which can be fulfilled as follows:

9 hours/semester (6 hours/ summer)
at least 8 hours + 30% GTA, GA, or GRA appointment
at least 7 hours + 40% GTA, GA, or GRA appointment
at least 6 hours + 50% GTA, GA, or GRA appointment

Employment outside the University may be used as part of the residency requirement if the student can demonstrate that the employment pertains directly to dissertation research. This type of employment must be approved by Graduate Studies by petition with a supporting statement from the department.

Foreign Language and Research and Responsible Scholarship Requirements

Ph.D. candidates shall, prior to admission to the Ph.D. comprehensive examinations, demonstrate knowledge of at least one foreign language relevant to the student's research interests (this may be the language that satisfied the M.A. degree foreign language requirement) and have successfully completed at least one 700-level or above History of Art seminar course in fulfillment of the Graduate Studies' Research Skills and Responsible Scholarship requirement. *Ph.D. students may be required by their Ph.D. advisor and/or committee to demonstrate proficiency in two or more foreign languages, depending on the student's area of specialization and program of study.

Students who enter the Ph.D. program with an M.A. from elsewhere may use that M.A. degree's language certification to meet this language requirement by providing appropriate written evidence to the graduate advisor by the first day of classes in the first semester of enrollment.

For students in European or American art history:

If a student entering the Ph.D. program from another institution has not already met the foreign language requirement, s/he may demonstrate proficiency by: (1) passing a departmental proficiency exam; (2) completing with a grade of B or better the fourth-semester level of a language; (3) completing with a B or better a course such as FR 100; French for Reading Knowledge; or (4) submitting a letter from a qualified faculty member attesting to the student's language proficiency.

For students in East Asian art history:

Chinese, Korean, and Japanese typically constitute appropriate foreign language. Students whose native language is not English may use the native language to fulfill a language requirement only if the language is considered to be an appropriate research tool for that student's program. Students should consult with the East Asian Ph.D. Advisor and/or their individual Ph.D. advisors about how they should proceed with language study in their first semester.

Language proficiency may be demonstrated by: (1) passing a departmental proficiency exam; (2) completing with a grade of B or better the fourth-semester level of a language; (3) submitting a letter from a faculty member attesting to the student's language proficiency.

For additional information on Residency, Post-Comprehensive Enrollment, and Research Skills and Responsible Scholarship please see Doctoral Requirements

Ph.D. General Comprehensive Examination

The Ph.D. general comprehensive examination consists of two parts: the written examinations and the comprehensive oral examination. The exams will cover the student's one major and two minor areas of study previously approved by the faculty in the student's Doctoral Program of Study petition.

In the process of preparing the Doctoral Program of Study petition, the student should establish with each advisor the scope of the major or minor field and the expectations the advisor has for the student's preparation for the written tests and comprehensive oral examination. It is the student's responsibility to maintain ongoing contact with the advisors until it is time to take these examinations.

When the doctoral aspirant has completed the course work specified on his or her Doctoral Program of Study petition at a level satisfactory to the department and has met all other requirements of the department and Graduate Studies (including evidencing two research skills and maintaining full-time enrollment at the University at the Ph.D. level for a minimum of one year), s/he may stand for the departmental written and comprehensive oral examinations.

It is the student's responsibility to schedule the comprehensive written and oral examinations. The written examinations are to be taken over a period of no more than three weeks for Option A and over three consecutive days for Option B. The comprehensive oral examination should normally be taken one week after the conclusion of the written examinations.

1. The scheduling of both written and oral examinations should be done in consultation with the major and minor doctoral committee advisors and at least two additional committee examiners, normally three to four months in advance of the commencement of the written examinations.
2. At least two months before the student's written examinations commence, email the following information to the Graduate Academic Advisor so that the exam may be officially scheduled:
 - The names and roles (chair, committee member, outside member) of all five members of the committee.
 - Written exam start and end dates and times, with subject area and advisor listed for each.
 - Two to three possible dates (usually Fridays) on which to schedule the oral examination. These dates must be approved by the major field and minor field advisors first. The Graduate Academic Advisor will then work with your entire committee to find a mutually convenient time for your oral examination.
3. The Graduate Academic Advisor will send out a reminder with the written examination schedule to the entire committee two weeks in advance of the first written examination. Additionally, the Graduate Academic Advisor will send out a reminder to the entire committee one week in advance of the oral examination.
4. If the oral exam requires a conference call, inform the Graduate Academic Advisor so that preparations can be made in advance.

1. Written Examinations

The written examinations will cover the student's one major and two minor areas of study previously approved by the faculty in the student's Doctoral Program of Study petition. The tests may be taken under option A (take home) or B (at school). Students may elect to take part of the exam under option A and part under option B.

Option A. (take home). The essays are written outside of the department over a period of three consecutive weeks, with full access to books, notes, and other resources. The completed essays should be fully documented with citations, double spaced, in 12 pt. font with one-inch margins. For the major field the student will have seven 24-hour days; for each minor field three 24-hour days.

The written examination questions are sent via email from the Graduate Academic Advisor to the student on the appointed day/hour. The student returns his/her answers via email to the Graduate Academic Advisor by the predetermined deadline (seven 24-hour days after receipt of major field question(s); three 24-hour days after receipt of each minor field question).

Option B (on campus). The essays are written in the department over a period of three consecutive days (one exam each day), without access to books, notes, or other resources. The completed essays are not expected to be documented with precise citations, but are expected to be typed on a computer, which will be provided. The test in the major area will last six hours with a one hour break after the third hour, and the tests in the two minor areas will last three consecutive hours each. The arrangement of these exam hours is decided by the student and the student's major advisor.

The advisors for the three areas will each grade the written examinations "pass" or "fail," usually within a week of completion of the essays. If all grades are "pass," the advisors need not meet. If one or more grade is a "fail," or if one of the advisors so requests, the graders shall meet to discuss the outcome of the examinations. Only students who pass the written examinations may proceed to the comprehensive oral examination. A student who receives a "fail" on any of the written examinations will be asked to retake one or more of the area tests, but in no cases may the written examinations (in part or in their entirety) be taken more than three times. In any case, the examination may not be repeated until at least 90 days have elapsed since the last unsuccessful attempt.

2. Comprehensive Oral Examination

The committee for the comprehensive oral examination shall consist of at least five graduate faculty members including the advisors for the major and minor areas. In addition to advisors for the major and minor areas, at least one member of the committee must be a regular member of the KU graduate faculty from a department other than the aspirant's major department. A prospective member of the committee from outside the university must have gained appointment as an ad hoc member of the History of Art graduate faculty before appointment to the committee. An ad hoc member of the committee is not considered an outside committee member.

At the end of the comprehensive oral examination the committee must assign a grade of "honors," "satisfactory," or "unsatisfactory." It can assign a grade of "satisfactory" or "honors" on the basis of both the comprehensive oral and written examinations; it can assign the grade of "unsatisfactory" on the basis of the comprehensive oral examination alone. If the aspirant receives a grade of "unsatisfactory" on the comprehensive oral examination, it (in part or in its entirety) may be repeated on the recommendation of the committee, but under no circumstances may it be taken more than three times. In any case, the comprehensive oral examination may not be repeated until at least 90 days have elapsed since the last unsuccessful attempt.

The committee will complete and sign a Committee Report Form which will specify the result of your examination. Once it has been completed, it is the student's responsibility to turn this form into the Office Manager immediately for submission to COGA.

Post-comprehensive Enrollment

After passing the comprehensive oral examination, the candidate must be continuously enrolled, normally in HA 999 (dissertation hours), not including summer sessions, until all the requirements for the degree are completed, and each enrollment must reflect as accurately as possible the candidate's demands on faculty time and university facilities. During this time, until all requirements for the degree are completed (including the filing of the dissertation) or until 18 post-comprehensive hours have been completed (whichever comes first), the candidate must enroll for a minimum of six hours each fall and spring semester.

Post-comprehensive enrollment may include enrollment during the semester or summer session in which the comprehensive oral examination is passed. If after 18 hours of post-comprehensive enrollment the degree is not completed, the candidate must continue to enroll each semester and each summer session until all degree requirements have been met.

The number of hours of each enrollment must be determined by the candidate's advisor and must reflect as accurately as possible the candidate's demands on faculty time and university facilities. Any questions regarding post-comprehensive enrollment may be directed to the Graduate Academic Advisor.

The Ph.D. Dissertation

After completion of the comprehensive oral and written comprehensive exams, the Ph.D. candidate is ready to begin work on a doctoral dissertation.

Dissertation Proposal

During the semester in which the comprehensive exam is taken and the dissertation proposal is prepared, a student enrolls in HA 999 (dissertation hours) and develops a contract with his/her dissertation advisor (see "Progress on the Dissertation" section below for specific information on all subsequent contracts). Failure to fulfill the terms of this or any other contract may result in the grade of NP (no progress).

Normally, the dissertation proposal must be approved by the student's primary advisor and the graduate faculty within three months of passing the comprehensive examinations.

* The proposal must be approved by the primary advisor prior to its distribution to the graduate faculty. At least one full week prior to the next regularly scheduled faculty meeting, the student must send via email in PDF format the proposal to the Graduate Academic Advisor and the DGS (for students in European and American art history) or the East Asian Ph.D. Advisor (for students in East Asian art history). In the rare circumstance that the Graduate Advisor is out of the office, an out-of-office notification will be sent in response to the email submission. In this case, it will be the student's responsibility to follow up with the DGS or East Asian Ph.D. Advisor.

*If three months from the successful completion of the comprehensive examinations falls during a break, the dissertation proposal (as approved by the student's primary advisor within the three-month period) must be submitted for consideration at the first regularly scheduled faculty meeting after the break.

The proposal should follow a format similar to those available on file in the Art History Department office (no more than five pages of text; endnotes optional; double spaced; 12 pt. type; 1 in. borders). Substantive changes to a previously approved dissertation topic must be approved by the student's primary advisor and the graduate faculty.

Progress on the Dissertation: HA 999 Permission Numbers and Grades

Each semester the dissertation student must enroll in at least one hour of HA 999, not including summers sessions. Enrollment in HA 999 requires a permission number that can be obtained only from the dissertation advisor (said numbers are not dispensed by the department's Office Manager). Dissertation advisors will provide permission numbers only after a contract has been agreed upon between the student and the advisor. A contract must be developed in advance of each semester, not including summer sessions. Instead, summer progress will be included in the fall semester contract. These contracts will indicate the progress the student expects to make during the term. Specific plans for each student will vary. For example, one student might propose to perform research and outline the text; another to draft a chapter; or, complete archival research in X; or, complete and submit the dissertation proposal, etc. These contracts should be developed in concert with the advisor, i.e., the student proposes a reasonable amount of work to be accomplished, and the advisor concurs or suggests alternatives. With agreement reached between student and advisor, the student will then be expected to complete the agreed upon work and, at the end of the semester, will be graded accordingly.

*Each student will indicate on every contract his or her time-to-degree by including the sentence: "My time-to-degree expires at the end of _____ (semester) _____ (year.)" See the Doctoral Program Time Constraints section of the Policy Library for details on time-to-degree requirements:

HA 999 hours will be graded based on the following scale:

- SP: Satisfactory Progress- Goals for the semester as agreed upon with the advisor as outlined in the contract have been met.
- LP: Limited Progress- Goals for the semester as agreed upon with the advisor as outlined in the contract have been partially met.
- NP: No Progress- Goals for the semester as agreed upon with the advisor as outlined in the contract have not been met and/or student has provided insufficient evidence of progress on the dissertation. This grade will result in a review of the student's status in the program by the graduate faculty, which may result in probation. In the event of probation, the student may be recommended for dismissal from the program if s/he does not fulfill the terms of probation.

Memorandum with Submission of Dissertation Chapter Drafts

Drafts of dissertation chapters submitted to readers should be covered by a memorandum explaining what is attached. See Appendix 2 of this document for a sample memorandum. A draft chapter without a covering memo places an undue burden on the reader to recall what the document is, at what stage it is, and what feedback would be helpful. A memo to the advisor (or other readers) should indicate what the document represents, how issues raised in previous drafts have been addressed, and propose times (generally 2-3 weeks hence) when the student would be available to discuss the work. (Ideally these discussions should occur in person; however, if that is not possible, then telephone or email is acceptable.)

The memo need not be lengthy, but it should be specific and clearly stated. Such a memo should permit the advisor's more expeditious review of the draft and more useful, focused critiques. And, these memoranda provide one way students can take a lead role in keeping track of their dissertation and its progress.

Dissertation Committee and Final Oral Examination Committee

The student must form a dissertation committee, which is composed of at least three readers including the dissertation advisor. All members of the dissertation committee must be chosen from the graduate faculty, and the chair must, in addition, be authorized to chair doctoral dissertations.

The final oral examination committee is composed of the three members of the dissertation committee plus two other members of the graduate faculty, one of whom must come from another KU department to represent Graduate Studies. Normally at least three members of the oral examination committee will come from the Art History Department. A prospective member of the dissertation or final oral examination committee from outside the university must have gained appointment as an ad hoc member of the History of Art graduate faculty before appointment to the committee.* An ad hoc member of the committee is not considered a representative of Graduate Studies.

*A prospective member of the dissertation committee from outside the university must have gained appointment as an ad hoc member of the History of Art graduate faculty before appointment to the committee. It is the student's responsibility to inform the Graduate Academic Advisor as soon as possible, but no less than six weeks in advance of the final oral examination, so that s/he may file the appropriate documents for approval by Graduate Studies. Once approved, the prospective committee member will be appointed as an ad hoc member of the History of Art graduate faculty.

Approval of Chapters and the Final Draft

Normally, the dissertation will not exceed 75,000-80,000 words in length (including notes and bibliography).

Each dissertation is to be completed, preferably, in advance of, the time limits specified by the department and Graduate Studies. It is the student's responsibility to keep track of the time remaining for completion of the dissertation, its defense, and submission to the university.

The dissertation is submitted to the dissertation committee for review and approval.

A student should submit each chapter draft to the primary advisor upon its completion. The advisor will normally return the chapter draft, with comments, to the student within three weeks. Several rounds of review and revisions are common.

After chapters are submitted and read individually, the advisor may also request to review the dissertation draft as a whole; if this option is exercised, the advisor normally will return the completed draft of the entire dissertation, with comments, to the student within three weeks.

Once the advisor has approved a draft of the complete dissertation (either chapter by chapter or by reading the entire text), the student distributes a draft of the entire dissertation to the second and third readers, who normally will return it with comments within three weeks.

Once the dissertation committee approves the final dissertation draft, the student distributes it to the five members of the committee for the final oral examination and schedules the final oral examination, which should occur no sooner than two weeks (and normally no more than six weeks) subsequent to this last distribution.

The Final Oral Examination

It is the student's responsibility to initiate the scheduling of the final oral examination (dissertation defense) and he/she should do the following:

1. Consult the academic calendar for graduation deadlines; submit an application for degree on "Enroll and Pay" by the due date, which is determined each semester by Graduate Studies. This calendar, as well as other information regarding preparing the dissertation for final submission, can be found on the COGA website under Preparing to Graduate.
2. At least three months before the target dissertation defense date, begin working with advisor to determine two or three possible dates (usually Fridays) for the dissertation defense

3. At least two months before the target dissertation defense date, provide the Graduate Academic Advisor, via email, the following information so that the exam may be officially scheduled:
 - The two or three possible defense dates
 - The names, email addresses, and departments of the five members of the dissertation committee.
 - The final title of the dissertation.
 - If the defense requires a conference call, inform the Graduate Academic Advisor so that preparations can be made in advance.

The Graduate Academic Advisor will work with the entire committee to find a mutually convenient date and time for the defense.

4. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all committee members are reminded by email of the upcoming examination two weeks in advance of the examination.

The final oral examination of the dissertation is the culmination of the Ph.D. program. Five committee members are appointed for the final oral examination. The final committee is composed of the three dissertation committee members and two other graduate faculty members, at least one of whom should be from outside the department. The outside member represents Graduate Studies and must be a regular member of the graduate faculty. Before the examination, Graduate Studies provides a list of responsibilities to the Graduate Studies representative, who is a voting member of the committee, has full right to participate in the examination, and provides a written report on any unsatisfactory or irregular aspects of the examination to the committee chair, department chair, College Office of Graduate Affairs, and Graduate Studies. Approval of the final dissertation draft by the dissertation committee will generally be followed promptly by the final oral examination.

The final oral examination, which is open to interested members of the university community, generally begins with a brief presentation that summarizes the dissertation and is usually illustrated by images provided by the candidate, followed by questions from the committee members. (The event generally lasts two hours or less.) The final oral examination committee will assign a grade of "honors," "satisfactory," or "unsatisfactory" for the candidate's performance and dissertation. If a grade of "unsatisfactory" is reported, the candidate may be allowed to repeat the examination upon the recommendation of the department.

The committee will complete and sign a Committee Report Form which will specify the result of the defense.

The candidate will be responsible for providing a Title Page and Acceptance page that will be signed by the appropriate committee member(s). Templates for the Title and Acceptance pages can be found here.

Once all three forms have been signed (Committee Report Form, Title Page, and Acceptance Page, it is the student's responsibility to turn them into the Office Manager for final submission to COGA.

Electronic Submission of Approved Dissertation

The final oral examination is followed promptly by electronic submission of the dissertation by the student with assurance that all degree requirements have been met by the deadlines established by the CLAS. Instructions about electronic submission of dissertations can be found on the Doctoral Degree Checklist. These links include general guidelines for preparing and submitting your dissertation, instructions for formatting the dissertation, instructions for converting the dissertation to PDF, publication requirements, copyright option, degree requirements to be submitted to the University of Kansas, title page format, title page format to copyright, and acceptance page format. Any questions should be directed to the Graduate Academic Advisor.

Time Limit for Ph.D. Degree

Normally, a student is expected to complete the requirements for the Ph.D. preferably before, but no later than within seven years of enrollment. The maximum number of years of enrollment for students who enter the Ph.D. program with an M.A. from KU is a total of ten years (i.e., from the beginning of the M.A. to the completion of the Ph.D.). The maximum number of years of enrollment for students who enter the Ph.D. program with an M.A. from elsewhere is eight years. The enrollment clock begins with the first semester of enrollment at KU.

Please note that while the University has put these time limits into place, students are strongly encouraged—by the department and the University alike—to make every attempt to complete the degree in advance of these limits.

In compelling cases where the Ph.D. degree has not been finished within these limits, the college has the authority to grant extensions. To request an extension, students must, in consultation with their dissertation advisor, complete and submit to the Graduate Academic Advisor, the Graduate Degree Completion Agreement. Advisors are unlikely to recommend extensions for a student who has not made satisfactory progress on the dissertation as recorded by grades for HA 999, nor is the University likely to approve such extensions.

It may be necessary for a student to revalidate or retake the Ph.D. comprehensive oral examination if it was taken more than five years before the final defense or an extension of time request.

A Ph.D. student may petition for a leave of absence (either during the pre- or post-comprehensive exam period) by filling out and submitting the Leave Of Absence form to the Graduate Academic Advisor.

Note that a student is eligible for a leave of absence ONLY if one of the following criteria describes the rationale for the request: illness or emergency; financial hardship; military leave; family responsibilities; full-time activities related to long-range professional goals

Ordinarily a leave of absence is granted for one year only, with the possibility of extension upon request. Students whose progress, especially at the dissertation level, is significantly slowed or halted for such reasons are strongly encouraged to petition for a leave of absence. A leave of absence will help a student conserve the limited period of allowed Ph.D. enrollment.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Enrollment—All F-1 and J-1 international students are required by U.S. Federal law to pursue a full course of study every fall and spring semester. Generally speaking nine hours is considered full time for graduate students. Students with a 50% Graduate Teaching or Research Assistantship are considered full time with six hours. Once a student has completed his or her post-comprehensive exam, the student must enroll in the number of hours required by the Graduate School. If s/he is enrolled in less than nine hours (or six hours + 50% assistantship), the student will need to complete paperwork in International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) to be considered full time for immigration purposes. Enrollment is only required in the summer if it is the student's first or final term. Summer enrollment need not be full time.

- Dropping a course/course—All F-1 and J-1 international students must get permission from International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) before dropping below full time.
- Withdrawal from the university— All F-1 and J-1 international students must get permission from International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) before withdrawing from the university.
- Change in degree program— F-1 students should always have an I-20 which accurately reflects their degree program (major and level). Any changes will necessitate a new I-20. Likewise all J-1 students should be in possession of a DS-2019 accurately reflecting their current degree program.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT/AID

The department offers a limited number of scholarships and fellowships on the basis of merit. The following types of support are available by nomination or application.

By nomination (only the first of these is available for entering students):

1. The department awards one or more Morris Family Scholarships to outstanding new graduate students. This honor provides a one-time monetary scholarship and up to four years of appointment as a graduate teaching assistant, which comes with a salary and full tuition waiver for up to nine credit hours. The Morris Scholar is also eligible to apply for a paid internship at the Spencer Museum of Art in years two and on.
2. Graduate Studies has available a number of scholarship awards to recognize academic accomplishment for incoming students and to assist meritorious current students in the timely completion of their degree programs. The number of scholarships awarded each year depends upon available funds. Nominations for fellowships for incoming students will be identified by the Graduate Admissions Committee and approved by the department faculty. Existing graduate students who are interested in particular Graduate Studies or other University fellowships should consult with their Ph.D. advisors and request that formal nomination be made to Graduate Studies. Please see the Graduate Studies' Departmental Scholarships page for additional information.
3. The department awards annually the Laurence Sickman Asian Art Scholarship, the Excellence in Asian Art Scholarship, the Timothy Mitchell Award, and multiple Marilyn Stokstad Awards, all of which carry a monetary award.

By application:

1. Half-time GA and hourly positions in the Visual Resources Facility.
2. Half-time GTA positions.
3. Half-time internship positions in the Spencer Museum of Art, selected by the Museum staff.
4. Foreign Language Area Studies grants for those studying Far Eastern languages, administered by the Center for East Asian Studies.
5. Other positions within the University, such as in the Art Library.

TRAVEL FUNDS

Graduate Studies Student Travel Funds

Funds are awarded to graduate students for travel to academic conferences and other scholarly activity. Funds are limited and are available strictly on a first come, first serve basis each semester. Each student is limited to one $500 award per career. Periodically, funds for a second conference are available through Graduate Studies. Please check the Graduate Studies' Internal KU Funding page for additional information.

Art History Travel Fund

The Art History Travel Fund considers applications from art history graduate students to support travel for dissertation research (domestic or international); travel to professional meetings for delivery of a research paper or the professional equivalent; travel to professional meetings for job interviews; travel to special training projects and other programs; and group travel. Full details regarding Art History Travel Fund support of graduate student travel can be found on the department's Art History Travel Fund webpage.

Eldredge, Stokstad, Li Art History Travel Award

Graduate students in the Art History department or those serving as interns in the SMA are eligible to apply for an award from the Eldredge, Stokstad, Li Art History Travel Fund. This award supports travel to view exhibitions or art collections in the United States, with preference given to those with a demonstrable interest in a career in museum work. This is a competitive award, offered annually, with a deadline for application typically around April 1. Full details regarding this award can be found on the department's travel resources webpage.

PROCEDURES FOR EVALUATING GRADUATE STUDENT PERFORMANCE

1. The DGS and/or Graduate Advisor for East Asian art advise all M.A. students (and Ph.D. students who have not yet submitted a Doctoral Program of Study petition) each term, review their files and grades, and discuss with them their program needs. Doctoral students should be advised by their dissertation advisor.
2. The East Asian and European and American faculty meet each spring to review all M.A. students and each fall and spring to review all Ph.D. students. The results of these reviews are communicated to the students during advising sessions.
3. Graduate students are encouraged to talk with faculty members at any time about their program and their progress.
4. Students who are having difficulties should consult with the DGS or Graduate Advisor for East Asian art; if necessary and appropriate, the case will be discussed by the faculty.
5. When students apply for jobs within the department, there is a general discussion among the faculty members of those students' progress. Again, students are encouraged to speak with the DGS or Graduate Advisor for East Asian art and/or the department chairperson.
6. Dissertation proposals are reviewed by the entire graduate faculty.

Student Grievance Procedure

Appendix 1: Sample Petition for Continuation in the Ph.D. Program

PETITION FOR CONTINUATION IN THE Ph.D. PROGRAM

Students who wish to be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program must complete and sign this form. Students must already have expressed this interest to a potential major field advisor and received that faculty member's support. Indicate below the name of that potential major field advisor.

The student must pass the M.A. exam in order for his/her petition to be considered. After receiving approval for the petition and upon successful completion of all M.A. requirements, the student will automatically be entered into the Ph.D. program and will be expected to maintain his/her enrollment as per Graduate Studies guidelines.

Students who indicate that they do not wish to be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program at the time of the M.A. exam will need to reapply for admission to the art history graduate program.

Please check one of the two choices, indicate the name of the faculty member who has agreed to support this petition, and sign and date below:

I would like to be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program

I have spoken with the following faculty member, who has agreed to serve potentially as a major field advisor: _____

I would NOT like to be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program

Appendix 2: Sample covering memo for submission of draft dissertation chapters

Sample memo, with emphasis on the "what," "why" and "when" of the submitted material:

Dear Professor XXX,

Here is the revised draft of my third chapter. When we last met, you suggested that I address the following issues:

- *Brief description of Issue A.
- *Brief description of Issue B.
- *Brief description of Issue C.

To address "A" I have added three paragraphs on page x.

To address B, I have significantly changed two sections of pages y and z.

I still have questions about C: I have tried to address them on pages xx and yy but would appreciate any additional comment you have about this topic, especially my application of X theory and my use of Y methodology.

Although we haven't discussed it, I have also tightened up the Introduction and would appreciate your thoughts on how or if it works better now. It is always helpful to know the section where you think I'm on track, as well as the places where there are still problems.

To make it easier for you to find these revised sections, I have highlighted them [in red, or with post-its, etc].

Would it be convenient to meet [or visit by phone/email] in a couple of weeks to review these changes? If you have time, my schedule is very flexible in the week of xxx, except for when I teach on Monday and Wednesday mornings. Is there a specific time that would work well for you?

Best,

Your student
